This short subsection serves as an example of basic \LaTeX constructs, which can be useful for writing a thesis.

Let us start with lists:

- The logo of Matfyz is displayed in figure 2.1.
- This is subsection 2.2.1.
- Citing literature [?].

Different kinds of dashes: red-black (short), pages 16–22 (middle), 45 – 44 (minus), and this is — as you could have expected — a sentence-level dash, which is the longest. (Note that we have follwed a by a tilde instead of a space to avoid line breaks at that place.)

Definition. A Tree is a connected graph with no cycles.

Theorem 1. This theorem is false.

Proof. False theorems do not have proofs. □
